

~MEDIA RELEASE~

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
August 3, 2012

Contact: Sarah Hartmann
Office: 631.854.1400

FROM THE OFFICE OF LEGISLATOR ROB CALARCO Elsie Owen Health Center Opens Officially Under New Management

Coram, LI—Friday, August 3: Leg. Rob Calarco was pleased to be on hand for the official rebirth of the iconic Elsie Owens North Brookhaven County Health Center in Coram. The center, which had been considered for closure because of the County’s budget cuts, will remain in operation under the management of Hudson River Healthcare (HRHCare) with funding from NYSHealth.

“This is very good news all around for struggling families and the community that desperately need this center in order to be able to access basic health care. Further, HRHCare will be bringing in even more services to the center, which is even better news,” said Leg. Calarco.

Leg. Rob Calarco (far left) with government and County Health Officials at the formal opening of the Elsie Owens North Brookhaven Health Center under new management. Also pictured are Leg. Sarah Anker (left center); Anne Nolon, president and chief executive of HRHCare (right center); Dr. James Tomarken, Suffolk County Department of Health Commissioner (right of Nolon) and Assemblyman Dean Murray (2nd from right)